PROLOGUE

We stand in the wings. The light that bathes the Stage is forbidding, unfriendly.

It would be safer, simpler to remain quietly in the wings in the shelter of darkness.

But many have stood here as we do—experiencing the same emotional turmoil born of the unknown. They, too, felt the chill of the untrodden Stage which needed only the living presence for warmth to replace emptiness.

Strange. A rosy glow of welcome and encouragement replaces the blue-white bareness. The light seems now to beckon.

With summoned courage, and, somehow, eagerness, we take hesitating, but not faltering, steps forward.

We are On Stage. The harshness of the light is lessened. Variations of the spectrum excite us, lure us nearer and nearer the kaleidoscope of the Stage of Life.

JULIUS C. BERNSTEIN

PRINCIPAL

It is most fitting that the theme of this book is the theatre, for now that graduation has come let us not look upon it as a final curtain. In fact, it is really only the end of a first act with a lifetime ahead to be played out. As I look over the cast of this class, I see some heroes, some heroines, and some characters, but in all cases, each carries in his role a hope for the future and a desire to play a part in life of which all of us will be proud.

It is my earnest hope that in the theatre of life each of you makes a smash hit.

TO OUR DIRECTOR

For your wisdom in tactfully guiding us in the right paths—
For your enthusiasm in helping us to plan and enjoy our class events—
For your unfailing encouragement and humor when class spirits were at a low ebb—
For the deep concern you have shown in us, the Class of 1958—
And, above all, for the part of yourself which you contributed toward our success, happiness, and welfare—
For all these things, Mr. Ostrin, we thank you.

All the world's a stage,
And all the men and women merely players:
They have their exits and their entrances;
And one man in his time plays many parts . . .

★ The production begins in February '54.
As the cast assembles on the Annex floor,
Silence reigns. The director appears
And expresses hope for a run of four years.
The script is not new, just a revival,
But each role is assigned to a new arrival.
Each player is given a part to portray
And the plot can unfold without delay.

THE RUN OF THE PLAY

★ The players study at home almost every night.
Add social activity, 'tis a late-burning light.
As each one knows another, the fun does start.
Not one stops to think, in four years all must part.
A departure from work, from picking up cues,
Is lunchtime enjoyment at Bragman's or Lou's.
Laughter from the gym, rings through the hall
Where the girls are dancing and boys play ball.
A perfect opportunity to develop romances
Are the Thursday canteens, or weekly dances.
The Spring Formal is the highlight affair
With most of the Players found gathering there.

★ The Players move to a bigger theater
Where some feel lost, and rather bitter.
But, it doesn't take long to get used to the new,
With little time to worry—for, so much to do.
Others from Madison have joined the group
Thus making complete this theatrical troupe.
New places to lunch (sought by the kids)
Are easily located—Harjay's or Syd's.

★ The four star winners, meet with applause
As they get together to work for the cause.
On major entertainment they do embark—
(Remember the picnic at Rahway Park?)
Another occasion where all are merry,
The successful square dance in January.
(The directors, the designers are there with their wives.)
We're laughing and dancing—the time of our lives.
There's much hard work, but fun does not stop.
The next big attraction's the beautiful Hop.
Entertainment wins a tremendous ovation.
The effort was worth it tho' we need a vacation.
At one event, costumes are seen
'Tis November—'tis Hallowe'en.
Also that month—a basketball game!
The crowd's superb (most everyone came!)
The last affair we have to remember
Is the Senior Prom. This is our December.
The evening is a sentimental one
For we can see the end of the run.

★ The Players look back, back to the stage
Where we started together on our very first page.
Each would seek a new role, a new life,
Find in his future his love, his strife.
And as a group we begin our careers,
Always to remember these happy years!

LONERGAN'S LUNATICS and LOVERS

101 PERFORMANCES

Miss Lonergan called us together one day,
And suggested we might produce a play.
A script was written by Dave Klein
Which everyone said was very fine.
Just when everything looked so sunny,
Rhona Fink mentioned the matter of money.
Rima Watenmaker agreed, "We're lacking . . .
We really need some solid backing."
Carole Sandler said, "I'll give you the dough.
Make the lead Stu Goldberg, my steady beau."
Marilyn Marcus chuckled, "Gosh! What a riot!"
Jibed Arlene Helfer, "Can humor be a steady diet?"
What Bobbie Lipman wanted to know
Was, "Who'd be an angel and back our show?"
Larry Orlans offered to make us a loan.
This was promptly vetoed by Sheilah Cohen.
Dave Rubin had an idea that seemed great:
"Why don't we incorporate?"
"That's a good one," Linda Koenigsberg thought,
"Then all our work won't be for naught."
Ann Klein was placed fully in charge of selling stock.
She started things rolling by buying a block.
Her committee, Haline Macholtz and Barry Gold,
Helped to see all the shares were sold.
"We've reached our mark," Elaine Ordower cried.
"Without money, this show would have surely died."
Ed Klurman commented, "We need many things,
Such as scenery, dancers and music that swings."
We were told by Joan Raff that the score was complete;
Leona Resnick announced, "The tunes can't be beat."
Choreographer Renée Horn was in a true trance,
"I've created" she said, "the most beautiful dance."
Herbie Gomberg uttered, "Enough about swirls,—
More important, will there be enough girls?"
Quick as a bunny, Barbara Jacobson retorted,
"Your idea of a play is slightly distorted."
The tickets were placed in Rhoda Schenerman's charge.
She sincerely believed the sales would be large.
Lola Rosenfeld headed the art committee.
"Make sure," warned Pat Hollerieth, "that the scenery's pretty."
Gerry Leisten stressed, "It's public relations, above all, that counts,
Good publicity—and we'll see how the profit mounts."
Flora Milchman agreed that indeed was the thing,
"But," she added, "it has to have a special ring."
To Phil Grand's press release Paula Loeb said, "No!"
"So sue me," he answered, "I just didn't know."
Toby Schuchman smiled and glanced up from her letter.
She remarked, "Minute by minute, the show gets better."
Now we are ready, and can, at long last,
Get down to the business of choosing a cast.

GREEN'S GUYS and DOLLS

121 PERFORMANCES

As we enter the room we see Mr. Green
Who is perched on a stool and is casting a scene.
A passage from Macbeth is recited by Judy Tuhy.
Rita Scheller applauds; but Hal Maier says, "Phooey!"
Hal seems to prefer the comedy team
Of Alpert and Amdur who are really a scream.
After dancer Bev Stein has finished her whirling,
Ruth Margulies steps up to show off her twirling.
At this time our talent scout Ira Tiplitz
Claims he's found three singers . . . Triplets.
But Ted Laux says he's seen by their eyes
They were not really sisters; 'twas a disguise.
Upon investigation it seems that the three
Are Ev Jefferson, Linda Crawford and Carole Lee.
Carol Lilien proposes we forgive the trio.
We agree; they gratefully sing O Sole Mio.
Oh, here comes Lou Muller and he starts in tappin'
While Eugene Pacelli keeps time with some clappin'.
Now a bit of a change, sweet Stephanie Dola
Does a pantomime act helped by victrola.
For the India act, who but Melinda Farmer
Offers her talents as expert snake charmer.
She's misplaced her snake so she uses Pat Garrity
Whose hissing puts us in a state of hilarity.

Sylvia Lifshitz speaks sharply. She's warning,
"Stop kidding around or we'll be here till dawning."
"Yes, let's hurry, let's finish," says Chris Franciscone,
"For my Mercury's parked in a No Parking zone."
On we go with a waltz done by Agnes Smith
And it's Hank Sonnabend that she's dancing with.
Awed and attentive is cute Rita Glaser.
(Marty Markowitz's card tricks simply amaze her.)
As tragedian, Anita Chinoy quivers and sighs,
Bringing tears to Marilyn Meiselman's eyes.
To be leading lady Judy Mesler is willing,
While Herb Gimelstob yearns for the part of the villain.
Shirley Brody remarks that it's clear as day
We all will be able to star in the play.
Now that we know just who plays which part,
We all must get ready. Rehearsal must start.

BIRNBAUM'S BANDWAGON

123 PERFORMANCES

Mrs. Birnbaum shakes her ruler and grins,
"Buenos dias, actores." Rehearsal begins.
Stage manager, Marc. Resnick, needs some advice.
He calls on our prop man, Larry Weiss.
Director Maxine Resnick sends us to our places,
And notes, as she counts, a few empty spaces.
She asks her fine secretary, Eileen Chinitz,
"Account for those absent in your minutes."
She ventures that Syma Scher's probably late,
Janet Schlachman is missing, her third time to date.
Iola Francis, stage mother, is full of concern.
She wonders, "Will these two ever learn!"
Sheila Scherer, studying her part with remorse,
Asks Charlotte Turen, "What'll I do? My voice—it's hoarse."
As Judy Van Poznack and the author fight,
Carole Grossman decides that Judy is right.
Joan Rosenberg comments, looking quite sage,
"The play's going through a difficult stage."

The cast seems tired and not quite awake,
When Debbi Sornstein suggests, "Coffee break?"
The air is cleared, at least for a while,
Enter Martin Fischel with a weary smile.
We call on S. Joel Weinstein to make him up well.
Bob Gardner exclaims, "Hey, man!—You look swell!"
Barbara Vernosky lights up the scene.
She asks Phyllis Lempert, "Red, yellow or green?"
Burton Greenberg suggests a brand new idea:
Special effects. Toby Zuckerman says, "Oy, vey is mir."
Arnold Schaab (Big Time Romeo) does well in his part;
He's played it so often he knows it by heart.
Adele Avergon and Jerry Blackman argue fiercely and hard.
Harry Ostrowsky warns he'll call the National Guard.
Howard Schiff, theatre manager, who oversees all,
Is amused. (He enjoys the sight of a brawl.)
We're pleased as our male lead, Howard Springer,
Says he'll show the critics—he'll be a singer.
He's heard by all but Martin Steele
Who's diligently doing a scene from Camille.
Matinee idol, Jeff Schram, if right is our guess,
Will make this show a sure success.
Audrey Fischer surveys the cast with glee,
Observes Bob Reisman, "Wait and see."
We've finished rehearsing. Everything looks just right.
And now, we are ready for opening night.

KOBETZ'S KAROUSEL

212 PERFORMANCES

For good luck, Mr. Kobetz gives each girl a kiss.
It's opening night and it's a hit, or a miss.
Lenny Fruchter, who's backstage and drawing the curtain,
Remarks to Sandy Katcher, "The show'll succeed, I'm more than certain."
Sybil Toland rises and goes to her stand,
As somebody whispers, "Strike up the band!"
The overture ends, out comes the chorus,
Then Ethel King sings a solo for us,
But the audience is dead, so to warm up the folks,
Barry Gold shuffles out to tell a few jokes.
Meanwhile, backstage, Renée Lehrhoff is sitting.
She's doing the prompting and also her knitting.
Barbara Wolf calms Judy Karetnick, who
Is nervous for fear she'll forget her cue.
Nan Bernstein and Rhea Jacobs, two dancing girls,
Are gossiping while fixing their careful curls.
In the wings, dressed to kill, is Sandy Dvorin,
Who yawns 'cause he thinks the whole thing is borin'.
But Gloria Kushner, who has acted before,
Is really eager about the whole score.
She jumps with joy, as a matter of fact,
As she watches Lora Weiss doing her act.
Now Fred Enfield draws some cartoons on stage,
His act will quickly become the rage.
Renee Hecht and Jan Aarons tell Annmarie Bradley,
Though this is her first role, she will not do badly.
Frank Danziger, our juggler, now has the floor.
He's finished. The audience calls, "Bravo! Encore!"
But we have a schedule to meet, and so,
Fran Kimmelman, announcer, says, "On with the show!"
On it goes, with Carl Holmes, who, calm as you please,
Is performing his act on the flying trapeze.
His partner, Gloria Morison (two in the air),
Is swinging and tossing her flaming red hair.
In the last act, Mina Levy gives us a song.
Annette Williams sighs, "Whew! Not a thing has gone wrong."
"Right," says Barbara Marlowe, "but let us not rally
Till the curtain goes down on the grand finale."
When it's finally over, Gerri Gottlieb notes we're now celebrated.
Sylvia Sempepos says our egos are inflated.
"A party," coos Don Beck. "The idea's pretty keen.
And I've just bought two gallons of Dairy Queen."
Judy Karl adds, "I also have something enticing,"
And produces a cake with a rich chocolate icing.
We've enjoyed today, but then, there's tomorrow,
We'll read the reviews to our joy . . . or our sorrow.

SCHECHTER'S SHOWBOAT

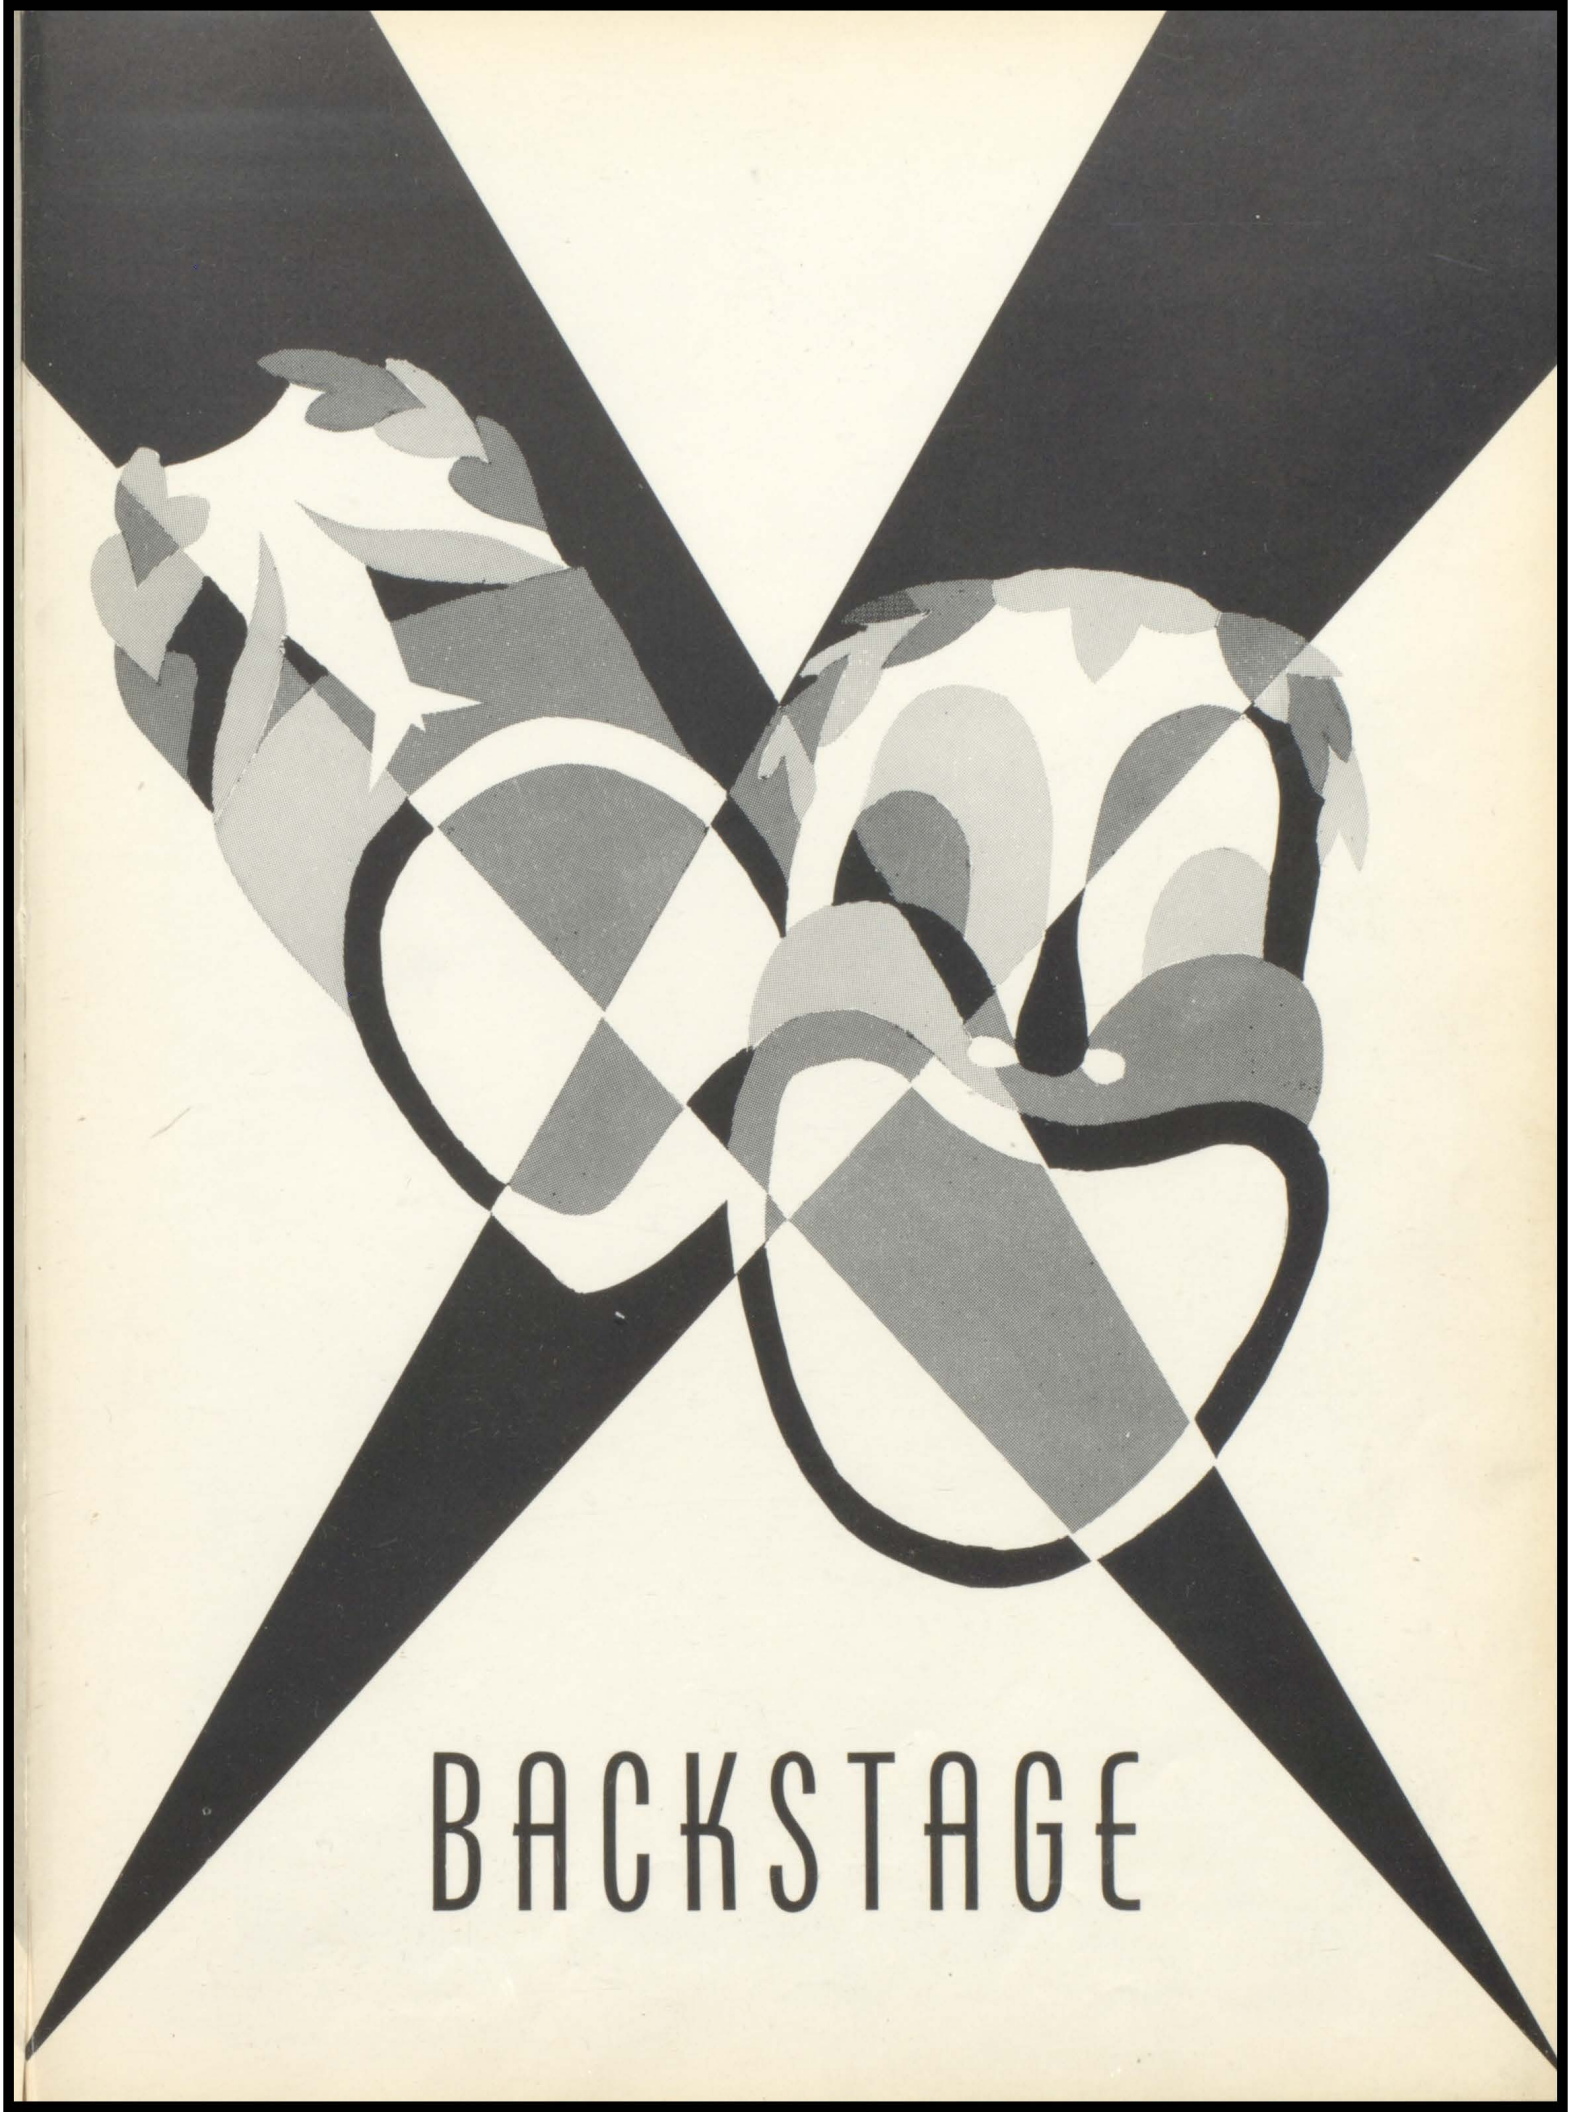

308 PERFORMANCES

We've all gathered round our captain, Mrs. Schechter;
We've told her we're glad she's our director.
Jerry Schwam remarks, as we wait for the news,
"I hope that our show gets four star reviews."
Leland Lowther is chosen to make a short speech.
He says he thinks stardom is in our reach.
Jeffrey Gerber says, "Regardless what the critics write,
I think the show was a hit tonight."
Rita Miller cries, "Nevertheless, I'm afraid!
What if our show did not make the grade?"
Phyllis Schenkel is nervous; she's weak in the knees.
Stan Weinick's so worried, he won't even tease.
Marlene Snyder and Naomi Davis, new to the cast,
Are praying their first night will not be their last.
Donny Kalfus keeps pacing; he can't stop and rest,
Though Dot Gandy helps, "All will turn out for the best."
Diane Marcus is casually combing her hair.
She's sure we'll get raves and she hasn't a care.
Flo Cohen won't worry, even today,
She just sits and dreams of her fianceé.

"I'm so nervous," Sue Oaklander says. "It's a crime!
Let's do somthing to pass the creeping time."
"I think she is right," agrees Susan Schilling,
"If someone suggests a good game, I'm willing."
Val Cypra suggests we play reliable Ghost;
Alan Levine thinks this idea's "the most."
"I can't," laments Thelma Lilien, "keep my mind on the game."
"My head is whirling . . . rave notices and fame!"
Paula Stashin, not too cheerfully sighed,
"If we're not successful—well, at least we tried."
Wendy Robinson figured the show would lose money.
Our banker, Arnie Kantrowitz, did not find that funny.
"We'd better be a hit," shouted Jacqueline Turk,
"After all of our energy—after all our hard work."
Here comes Jon Bauman, not a minute too soon,
He has the Times and the Herald Tribune.
Barbara Gustos takes both. She just cannot wait.
"Look! Right here!! It says we were great."
Bob Kapraszewski, then, read the reviews aloud.
"We're a hit! A success!" shouts Sammy McCloud.
Lester Steinhoff reflected, "It was hard waiting, but nevertheless,
What a wonderful feeling—the show's a success!"
Claire Belowsky and Billy Jacobs, who are usually quiet,
Whoop, yell and start a veritable riot.
Putting the show on the road's lots of fun
Though there're drudgery, tears—before it is done.
And when the critics predict a very long run
It's then that the hard work has just begun.

CLASS SONG

We are the Class of '58.
And we're not boasting,
We think we're great.
We are the closest—
The very mostest—
It must be fate.

LIGHT A CIGARETTE

(to the tune of Five Foot Two)

Light a cigarette, take a drag,
But whatever you do don't lag.
Has anybody seen J. C.?
Where's he—in the office.
Smoke it quick, but beware,
'Cause we can sense it in the air
That's Mr. Bernstein makin' his prowl.
Now if you come in late, 8:38,
You're sure to find Mr. B., Miss Bowerman, too.
Bet your life they won't be kind.
Now, after all is said and done,
Don't get mad 'cause it's all in fun,
Because we really love it here—
WHERE'S THAT!
Aldine and Chancellor!
'Cause we really love it here.

THIS ENCHANTED EVENING

This enchanted evening, we will all remember,
We will all remember, this lovely night in June.
We've sung and we've danced. Our hearts were entranced,
And the time of parting has come all too soon.
This enchanted evening, memories we'll cherish
Memories won't perish of happy times gone by.
We've all been so close through laughter and tears
And all through our lives we will treasure these years.
The entertainment's over; the Hop we ne'er will forget.
Now that it's over, we never will forget.

DOIN' WHAT COMES NATURALLY

Teachers are dumb where we come from.
They ain't had any learnin'.
Still they're flunkin' kids like we
Doin' what comes naturally.

You don't have to know how to read or write
When you're out with a fella in the pale moonlight.
You don't have to know how to quote Macbeth
Or even know about Caesar's death.
That comes naturally. That comes naturally.

Miss Lonergan in 210
Can't even write her name.
She signs her recipies with x's
And they all come out the same.
That comes naturally. That comes naturally.

The teacher in the art room
Pretends that she can draw,
But all she ever does
Is yell and yell some more.
That comes naturally. That comes naturally.

Uncle Ed lives on the hill,
In his little "white house."
There he lives with his son and wife
Doin' what comes naturally. Doin' what comes naturally.

Our Señora Birnbaum,
That is what we call her,
One day we will trick her
And break her little ruler.
That comes naturally. That comes naturally.

This was all in fun. You see,
We really love our teachers,
And we hope that you'll agree,
We're doin' what comes naturally.

3A WIC WALK

I'm a bow-legged chicken, I'm a knock-kneed hen.
Never been so happy since I don't know when.
I walk with a wiggle and a giggle and a squawk
Doin' the 3A Wic Walk.

Old McDonald had a duck

Refrain

Put your knees together, your arms apart.
Flap your elbows. Get ready to start.
Stamp your feet just for luck.
Then you wiggle and you waddle like a baby duck.

We came to this here great affair with bells
on our shoes and bows in our hair.
We ain't silent cousins 'cause we like to talk
When we're doin' the 3A Wic Walk.

When you walk through a storm

Refrain

We brung these fellers over to Syd's.
They ate so many hot dogs—they flipped their lids.
Now Clem and Zeke and Abacrawk are
doin' the 3A Wic Walk.

Drink to me only with thine eyes and

Refrain

Now grab your partners one and all,
And go on dancin' and have a ball.
Our horse outside is double-parked and he's
doin' the 3A Wic Walk.

You may think that this is the end.
Well, it is.

THERE IS NOTHING LIKE OUR FACULTY

(to the tune of There Is Nothing Like A Dame)

There is nothing like our faculty, nothing in the world
Better there could ever be than the Weequahic Faculty.

They give homework until 12, book reports and lab rejects,
Give us quizzes on the wrong days—
Just to that we don't object.
When we walk into the chem lab we get dizzy from the smell.
What don't we get? You know darn well!

There is nothing like our Uncle Sol, nothing in the world.
He is really quite a doll, our adviser Uncle Sol.

All the troubles that we cause him; we must drive him quite insane,
But he is such a boobie that he never would complain.
When he walks into Class Council, he just takes things in his stride.
No wonder he's the 4B's pride.

There is nothing like our Uncle Sol, nothing in the world.
He is really quite a doll, our adviser Uncle Sol.

So supposing we ain't bright or completely free from fault,
Or as mild as a bird dog or as kind as Santa Claus,
It's a waste of time to worry.

Over pupils you have not
Be thankful for the one's you've got.

There is nothing like the 4B class, nothing in the world,
For better kids you couldn't ask
Than our wonderful, fabulous, marvelous, obnoxious, 4B class!

PUDGE

(to the tune of Honey Bun)

Mr. Gerard's not dainty as a sparrow,
His physique is nothing to applaud.
Where he's narrow he's as narrow as an arrow,
And he's broad where a man should be broad.

Chorus:

Three hundred and one pounds of fun,
That's our little honey-bun . . .
Get a load of little Pudge tonight.

Speaking of our little guy,
Only 43 inches high,
Every inch is packed with dynamite.

His hair is black and curly.
His curls are hurly burly.
His belly's like fudge.
We call him Pudge. Whirly and Burly.

He's our guy, without a doubt.
At us little keeds he'd never shout.
We are caught and we don't want to run,
Cause we're havin' too much fun with little Pudge.
Believe me, honey,
He's the cookie who cooked up the 4B Hop.
Ain't bein' funny.
Sonny, put your money . . . on our
LITTLE PUDGE!!
